Supported Decision-Making: What is it?

Supported Decision- Making- “decision-making model in which an individual makes decisions with the support of trusted individuals” (American Bar Association)

There is an expectation that people with DD have the opportunity to:

- Identify who they want to help them make decisions and how

Sam

Sam is 18 years old. He has autism and uses words to communicate. He is in high school and has been learning job skills and about how to be a good employee while in school. Sam is considering graduating so that he can work and focus on his dream of being an actor.

Sam lives with his mother, father, and older sister, who visits when home from college. Sam wants to live on his own in the nearby city after he graduates. He feels “the city is where stars are made.”

Sam

Sam's parents are nervous about Sam living on his own and making his own decisions because they worry he will be taken advantage of by others. Sam has never had to budget his money or pay bills and believes that everyone he meets is his friend.

Sam and his family decided to use a supported decision-making agreement to help Sam talk through decisions in the areas of life he needs more support. Sam is able to make his own decisions and keep his rights and independence. Sam and his family understand the benefits of Sam's right to take risks and learn from them (dignity of risk).
